Allparts Technical Centre

Train to safeguard your future!

Increasingly complex vehicle systems require ever more qualified diagnostics for professional repair and service. Electronically controlled components on a vehicle from fuel injection to air bags, braking to rain sensors are no longer the exception, but rather the rule. Additionally more and more components are becoming dependent on electronic sensors including chassis, interior comfort, drivetrain and lighting.

Without a structured and planned training prospectus for you and your technicians you will not be able to work, service or diagnose faults on vehicles in the very near future.

However, we see this as a great opportunity to drive the quality of workshop technician skills forward in a dynamic and advanced manner. It will provide a personal development plan for your staff and aid in staff retention and job satisfaction.

We offer hands on training courses from several of the World's leading automotive component manufacturers including Bosch, Delphi and Hella.

Many of the courses are co-certified by the Institute of the Motor Industry (IMI) and successfully trained candidates will be awarded (ATA) Automotive Training Accreditation.

Properly trained technicians are highly skilled professionals. There are three levels of accreditation:

- Service Maintenance Technician
- Diagnostic Technician
- Master Technician

Talk to ATC today so we can discuss a suitable training plan for your business and safeguard your future!

All our courses incorporate a broad range of teaching methods to aid in the learning process and trainees are encouraged to participate at all levels. We also believe that learning should be an enjoyable experience.

Training prospectus

Delphi Product and Services Solutions has invested in a state of the art technical and training centre in Warwick designed exclusively to develop service skills and professionalism across the automotive aftermarket.

Bosch understand that for trainees to attend courses it not only takes effort, but also time and cost. However, it is firmly believed that this commitment is offset by the huge advantages gained in work based knowledge.
